MY 14-YEAR WAIT FOR JUSTICE

Rape victim speaks of relief after attacker is jailed

THE victim of a rapist who struck in Harlow 14 years ago has spoken of her relief after he was finally put behind bars this week.

Jon Molt (34) of Rushes Mead, was sentenced to eight-and-a-half years in prison at Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday after being found guilty of raping the then 15-year-old schoolgirl.

The former airport worker, who is married with two young children, was finally traced and linked to the vicious assault on December 11, 1997 by the Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate's cold case team.

During a review of the investigation in February last year they discovered a "familial" match with a DNA sample provided by Molt's father during an unrelated police inquiry.

This week the victim said she had begun to fear her attacker would never be brought to justice.

Report by VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

"It is difficult to describe the sense of relief that I feel now that this man has been caught," she said. "Fourteen years is a long time and I was beginning to believe that he would never be caught."

"I am extremely grateful that Essex Police continued to investigate the crime and I would like to thank them not only on my behalf but for any future victims who will now never have to go through the ordeal that I have had to endure."

The 30-year-old, who is now married and living in London, said she believed her case strengthened the argument for the ongoing debate about whether DNA samples gathered by police should be preserved on a national database.

FLASHBACK: Star, December 18, 1997

"The police were helped markedly in their enquiries by having the resources to use familial DNA fingerprinting and I strongly support the arguments for the use of this technique and for the maintenance of the DNA database," she said.

"I understand the counter arguments that such a database may infringe civil liberties, but I would respond that if we have nothing to hide then we should not feel threatened by the storage of this information.

"In random attacks such as the one I suffered, there may be no other way of catching the perpetrator."

Senior investigating officer DCI Rob Vinson said: "Jon Molt believed for over 14 years that he had got away with this brutal and shocking attack on a young girl who had just left a school concert. He hadn't and he will be going to prison for a long time.

"This prosecution sends a clear message to those who commit such crimes that they should spend their days expecting a knock on the door, no matter how long ago their offence.

"What is most important, of course, is that we have been able to tell this young girl, now a woman, exactly who had attacked her and for her to see justice done.

"Our thanks go to her for her support and determination in watching her attacker face the consequences of his crime, to the forensic scientists and to the detectives who were so determined to bring this man to justice."

He added: "The use of new DNA techniques and the national database were key to unlocking this case and we will continue to use any opportunities we can to bring hope to those still waiting for answers and bring fear to those responsible for those crimes."

Rapist snared by 'cold case' team

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A RAPIST who submitted a schoolgirl to a vicious sex attack 14 years ago showed no emotion as he was jailed for more than eight years on Monday.

A jury at Chelmsford Crown Court took just 90 minutes to convict Jon Molt (34) of the rape, which took place in a parcel of woodland between Churchfields, Momples Road and First Avenue – known locally as Ten Metre Wood – on December 11, 1997.

During the three-day trial the court heard how Molt, of Rushes Mead, was eventually traced by police after DNA obtained from his father during an unrelated police investigation provided a "familial match" to samples taken from the crime scene when the case was reviewed in 2011.

Detectives approached several other members of the Molt family, all of whom provided DNA voluntarily.

Carolyn Gardiner, prosecution, told the court the sample provided by Jon Molt matched with DNA taken from semen retrieved after the assault – leaving only a one in a billion chance that he was not the attacker.

The court heard that on the evening of the attack, the victim had left a school Christmas concert early to visit her boyfriend. But as she approached the secluded wooded area she was grabbed around the neck from behind, struck on the head and pulled to the ground.

When the girl started screaming, her attacker, who was wearing a stocking over his face, struck her again before putting his hand over her mouth and telling her he would "kill her bad" if she didn't co-operate.

"She did all she could to prevent the attack," said Ms Gardiner. "She pleaded with him. She said 'please don't hurt me I am only 15'."

During cross examination, married father-of-two Molt, who denied the charge, said he accepted his DNA

TIMELINE: December 11, 1997 - June 11, 2012

DECEMBER 11, 1997

Police launch a manhunt for the masked rapist who attacked a 15-year-old schoolgirl as she made her way to her boyfriend's house following a school concert.

DECEMBER 18, 1997

Officers stage a reconstruction of the victim's movements on the night of the attack in an attempt to jog the memory of any potential witnesses. The Star prints a front page story appealing for information.

JANUARY 15, 1998 After receiving information from a member of the public, police produce an e-fit image of the suspect which sparks a flurry of calls to detectives after it is printed in the local press.

FEBRUARY 24, 1998 A filmed reconstruction of the attack is screened on the BBC1 programme Crimewatch UK, prompting a further 100 calls to police from the public.

SEPTEMBER 10, 1998 The Star reports that detectives are "refusing to rule out" possible links between the December rape and two other serious sexual assaults in Essex. The trail runs cold soon afterwards.

JUNE 2009

Police take a DNA sample from Jon Molt's father for an unrelated offence.

FEBRUARY 2011

Officers from the Kent & Essex Serious Crime Directorate's cold case investigation team review the 1997 rape case. Report recommends running a full DNA database scan to check for new matches.

NOVEMBER 2011 Police run a scan and find familial match between DNA taken from the crime scene and the sample provided by Molt's father in 2009. Molt and other family members both voluntarily provide police with DNA samples.

JANUARY 2012 Officers arrest Molt at his home in Rushes Mead, Harlow, after matching his sample with DNA taken from the original rape scene.

JUNE 11, 2012 Molt, who denied carrying out the assault, is jailed for eight-and-a-half years after jury unanimously convicts him of rape.

was present but couldn't remember the alleged incident. "If I could remember this I would have admitted it," he said "I go by what I feel is correct. I'm not capable."

He said he could not remember people unless he'd met them at least six times, adding: "I cannot remember having a good memory ever. It has got progressively worse."

Asked whether he had committed any other rapes around the same period, he replied: "I can't tell you. As far as I can tell you I think not."

Sentencing Molt to eight-and-a-half years, judge Christopher Ball described the defendant's actions as "every woman's nightmare".

"She was a youth, a schoolchild," he said. "You forced her by hitting her in the face and bullied her to the ground. Being stronger, you overpowered her and then had unprotected sex."

"You told her you had HIV. You can imagine that haunted her for months and months, even years. A complete stranger attacked by a man with a mask over his face, it's every woman's nightmare."

He added Molt must remain on the sex offenders register for life.

Heavy rain insufficient to end hosepipe ban

WATER supplier Veolia, which serves Harlow, has no plans to lift its hosepipe ban despite recent downpours across the region.

Although heavy rain has begun to recharge underground aquifers, the firm said groundwater reserves remain well below normal levels following an unusually dry 24-month period.

Restrictions have been relaxed for certain businesses reliant on heavy water use, but householders will have to wait at least another month before the ban is lifted.

Water resources manager Mike Pocock said: "The level of recharge achieved so far has been small compared to what will be needed to restore groundwater resources to normal levels, but it has been sufficient to allow for a limited review of the exceptions given to assist businesses affected by the drought.

"Following the unusually dry weather we have experienced over the 24-month period prior to April this year we will need prolonged and substantial rainfall over a longer period to recharge our aquifers and to move us out of a drought situation.

"Months of wet weather, particularly during the next autumn and winter period, will be needed to restore groundwater to normal levels."

Pedal pals near end of Africa adventure

By VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

NOT even an infection of the small intestine has managed to put a Harlow woman off course from completing a year-long bike ride from London to Cape Town.

Despite a few setbacks en-route, former Mark Hall head girl Loretta White (31), husband Craig (35) and two friends have now reached Zambia since leaving London at the beginning of August last year.

The quartet, who have covered more than 7,500 miles and crossed 22 countries in the 10 months they have been away, are taking on the mammoth challenge to raise £100,000 for their own dedicated charity – Cycle Africa – supporting street children across the continent.

"The last few months have been extremely difficult but we have been spurred on by the laughter, waves and smiles of strangers," said Loretta, pictured right, who works as a clinical psychologist.

"We've seen some beautiful places, from the thousand hills of Rwanda to the savannah plains of Tanzania. The wildlife has been getting slowly more exotic and we've even heard hippos and hyenas outside our tents at night." During the trip the Cycle Africa team have had to tackle the mountains of Ethiopia, cross the equator in Kenya, journey through the war-torn country of Burundi and tackled the vast wilderness of western Tanzania into Zambia.

En route they have been visiting street child projects run by UK charities Street Action, Street Child Africa, Retrak and Railway Children, all of which they will be supporting with the money raised from the challenge.

"We have seen some incredible projects on our trip to date but also some incredibly sad situations," continued Loretta. "We were at a project called New Generation in Burundi last month and had to wave goodbye to a group of four- and five-year-old children as they went off to sleep on the streets with only a packet of biscuits in their tummies."

According to Loretta, an unexpected outcome of the trip is the amount of support they have received from national cycling teams in the countries they have travelled through and their new-found local celebrity status after being featured in national newspapers and on television in Ethiopia, Kenya, Uganda, Rwanda, and Burundi.

"Despite seeing us on television people still do not believe we have cycled all the way to Zambia," she added.

The group is now continuing into Zimbabwe, through Mozambique, Swaziland and finally South Africa in hope of reaching the coast at Cape Town in the next couple of months.

To follow the team's progress or donate money to their cause, visit their website at www.cycleafrica.org.

Red Cross needs a helping hand

VOLUNTEERS are being sought to distribute medical equipment to people in Harlow.

The British Red Cross is looking for people who can spare three or more hours a week to help run its local medical equipment service.

The project, which was set up to provide short-term loans of items such as wheelchair commodes and toilet frames for people with a disability or illness, needs more people to deliver and maintain the equipment.

"Our medical equipment service can be a real lifeline for vulnerable people in Harlow," said Michael Lascelles, Red Cross medical equipment service manager for Beds, Herts and Essex.

"We are only asking people to spare a couple of hours a week and the work is extremely rewarding. You could make a big difference to someone's life in a short time."

For more information, contact Sarah Nagle on 0844 412 2772 or email snagle@redcross.org.uk.

Drop-in sessions aimed at carers

A NEW drop-in service has been started to give those who find themselves caring for a loved one a helping hand.

Caring for Harlow Carers, a group dedicated to supporting local carers, is expanding its services with a new monthly clinic offering advice and information as well as a chance to talk to others in similar circumstances.

Carers development worker Emma Robinson said: "The aim of these sessions is to provide a friendly welcome and an opportunity for carers to come and meet with other carers and chat informally over a cup of tea or coffee."

"This time and space also provides an opportunity for the carers to have a little time away from their caring responsibilities."

The drop-in session takes place in the resource centre at the Leisurezone on the first Friday of the month from 10am-noon, with the next scheduled for July 6. For more information, call (01279) 308314 or email carers@harlowcarers.org.uk.

Hospice lottery

THE winner of the £1,000 prize in the St Clare Hospice lottery drawn on Friday, June 8 is ticket holder 484348, who lives in Harlow.

The second prize of £100 goes to the holder of ticket number 217146 who lives in Theydon Bois.

Support group gets cash boost from donations website

A HARLOW-based charity helping parents and children cope during family break-ups has received a £2,500 boost from a national donation website.

The Freshwaters Contact Centre aims to ease the stress and upset caused to children during a parental break-up.

After recently joining donation site Localgiving.com, - which promotes and collects money for small local charities - the group were fortunate enough to benefit from a short-term promotion where all funds donated were doubled.

"The extra support and wider promotion given through the website is making a big difference to the contact centre," said treasurer Steven Rumens.

"For a small charity with annual costs of around £17,000, this has made a significant contribution to our financial position."

The centre was set up in 1996. As well as offering ongoing support, it provides facilities for children to spend time in the company of their non-resident parent to help them cope more effectively with the change.

"Over the last year the support we've received through financial gifts, time given by our network of volunteers and through goods and services provided free of charge by other organisations has enabled us to run 53 contact sessions for 48 families," added Mr Rumens.

Armed police sent to house after weapon scare

ARMED police keep their weapons trained on a man as he emerges from a house in Old Harlow following reports of a disturbance on Monday.

Officers were sent to the address in The Hill at around 3.30pm following allegations the man was causing criminal damage. But after receiving further information the suspect was carrying a weapon, an armed squad was sent to provide back-up.

"It was unlike anything I have ever seen before!" said one resident. "There were nine armed police, each equipped with hand and machine guns and the whole procedure was carried out extremely professionally.

"Some went round the back of the building whilst the rest covered the front of the house. It was so well orchestrated, like something out of a film!"

According to eyewitnesses, the man was seen to make threatening gestures with a samurai sword, although police have not confirmed what type of weapon – if any – he was wielding.

A police spokesperson said a man was arrested for criminal damage at the scene but was later released without charge.

Scooter thieves' final insult

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertssexnews.co.uk

TWO mobility scooters stolen from outside the homes of disabled pensioners have been recovered after being vandalised and dumped.

Shortly after the Star reported on the thefts of two scooters belonging to Old Harlow couple Roy and Joy Ashbee – one of which was abandoned and found later the same day – and David West, of Commonfields, the vehicles were found by police community support officers in Tending Road.

However, both scooters were left in an unusable state and will cost hundreds to repair.

Mr West, who suffers from Parkinson's disease and asthma and has problems with his knees and hips, said: "I thought the police would locate them eventually but they have both been completely wrecked."

"On my scooter they have damaged or broken off all the mudguards, ruined the mirrors, made several dents and have stolen the ignition key. On top of that I had to pay £150 to retrieve the scooter from the police pound."

"It has been a really miserable time for me being stuck inside for the last three weeks. I want to know why these people did it and what pleasure they got out of doing it."

"It must have been the same thieves who took both mine and Roy's scooter yet judging by the damage caused they can't have been intending to sell them. It was just a bit of cruel fun."

Mr and Mrs Ashbee, who are both aged 78 and suffering from a number of debilitating ailments, praised the work of the police since the theft.

"They have been marvellous and have given us a lot of support," said Mr Ashbee. "Unfortunately by the time the scooter was

SO KIND: Star reporter Vicky Lane presents Mr Ashbee with the money donated by readers following the theft of the scooters. Top right, the Star's report of the theft found it was extremely damaged, although the police have recovered fingerprints from them so I'm hopeful they'll catch those responsible.

"It seems extremely unfair that we have had to suffer such anxiety because what has turned out to be just mindless vandalism."

This week the Star handed over the money donated by readers who were touched by the Ashbees' plight.

"It has been really overwhelming and we can't thank everyone enough," said Mr Ashbee. "The young boys next door have been absolutely terrific and we are amazed by the donations handed in to the Star."

"We have decided we will be giving the money to St Clare Hospice who have done a wonderful job for friends in the past."

Police confirmed they are still investigating the thefts, and appealed to anyone with information to contact them on the non-emergency number of 101.

More trunks than a swimming pool

IT isn't every day you see a parade of elephants walking down the street. Yet that is exactly what residents witnessed in the early 1970s when the circus came to Harlow.

This picture of elephants and camels being taken for a walk around town was sent in by Jeanne Mann in response to a request by reader Bill Lewis.

Bill got in touch with Nostalgia to see if anyone had photographed the unusual spectacle of animals being paraded from Harlow train station to the Town Park back in the 1950s.

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

"Bill's memories of the circus arriving reminded me that I had taken some snaps," explained Jeanne, of The Downs. "This would have been in the early 1970s though. "I think it must have been mentioned in the newspaper or something as I remember actually calling the train station to see what time the elephants would be arriving. They thought I was nuts!"

Jeanne said she remembered going down with her little brother who she later took to see the circus.

"I think it was the first and only circus I have ever seen," she said. "Obviously it was in the days before they had restrictions on using animals. I even remember there being lions in a cage."

She added: "What I think is really interesting about the pictures is the field background to the park. You wouldn't recognise it nowadays. I also can't work out what that building is; I wonder if someone else might know."

Diane's happy memories of her parents' fruit and veg business

DID you once purchase your fruit and veg from Gardiners of Harlow?

The shop in Old Harlow was a new business venture for owners Walter and Phyllis Gardiner after they moved to the town from Stratford in 1947.

Taking over an already established greengrocers and florist belonging to a Mrs Butcher, the couple soon put their own stamp on the business.

"Harlow was very different in those days with no new town," said their daughter, Diane Dracott. "There were very few shops and people, although I remember how crowds used to regularly meet on Mulberry Green with many horses and dogs to conduct hunts."

"At the end of the High Street was a nunnery and there were many aristocracy, gentry and farmers living in the district." Selling all the usual fruit and vegetables, refreshments and a popular range of frozen food, Diane said Gardiners of Harlow became enormously well known.

"My parents ran the shop for 20 years and really made the business their own," she said. "It became a family thing and I remember my eldest sister

Hilda regularly helping out in the shop although I never had a real interest in it.

"I'll always remember one day when a hole suddenly opened up in the unmade road opposite the shop where my mum used to park her van. It turned out that for all those years she had been parking on top of a well!" The couple - who went on to have six daughters - eventually moved to bigger premises in Priory Avenue.

After her husband died at the age of 45 in 1962, Phyllis determinedly carried on the business for another three years, running a mobile greengrocery van serving the villages and surrounding areas. She eventually sold up in 1965 and moved near Churchgate Street.

"We all have a lot of happy memories from our time at the shop and I would expect quite a few people in the area to remember it," said Diane.

"I have also noticed a road on a new housing development near Potter Street has been named The Gardiners. I wonder if it was named after my parents' shop."

● Did you used to shop at Gardiners of Harlow? Or do you have any memories or photographs of Harlow from the 1950s-1980s? Why not share them with our readers by writing to Nostalgia, 6 West Gate, Harlow CM20 1JW or email them to vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

1987 From the Star 25 years ago

● Harlow Swimming Club secretary John Shelton used his life-saving skills to save a small boy from drowning in a holiday camp pool. John, of Little Cattins, was on holiday with his family at the Butlins' Southcoast World centre at Bognor Regis when he saw the young lad having difficulties in the deep end of the pool and went to his aid.

● Top television celebrity Anikka Rice got a chance to meet some of her most devoted Harlow fans when she dropped in to help raise money for charity. The TV star took part in a treasure hunt across the town organised by the newly renovated Rumbelows store in aid of the local cancer appeal.

● Harlow is to lose more than 200 jobs following the announcement that Alcatel is to close its engineering support centre. A spokesman for the group said work will be transferred to other bases in Europe when the company's offices in Great Eastern House, Edinburgh Way, Joseph Rank House and West Road are closed.

● More than 150 visitors from Harlow's French twin town Velizy have arrived to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the town twinning. They were presented with a framed copy of Sir Frederick Gibberd's original masterplan of the town.

MY VIEW FROM WESTMINSTER

by Harlow MP Robert Halfon

Join fight for cheaper fuel

A regular Star readers will know, I have been fighting for cheaper petrol and diesel for some time now.

Thanks to pressure from many Harlow residents and also my campaign in Parliament, fuel duty was cut in 2011 and frozen in January 2012. This meant that filling up the family car is now 10p per litre cheaper than it would have been.

The Government has also scrapped the fuel duty escalator. However, as former Tesco chief executive Sir Terry Leahy said last year: "I don't think people fully appreciated what an oil shock we've had. Filling up the family car has gone up 70 per cent in two years, against what was a steady recovery to go sideways."

Rip-off petrol prices are still putting real pressure on Harlow. They are forcing people off the roads and creating a poverty trap. That's why I launched a debate in Parliament, with 30 other MPs, before the jubilee weekend and have started a petition at www.petrolpromise.com asking for:

- >> A windfall tax on oil companies to reduce prices quickly at the pumps, especially in Harlow where petrol is often 5p more expensive than other nearby towns
- >> A tough investigation by the Office of Fair Trading into price fixing in the oil market, as is happening in Germany
- >> Urgent action on petrol and diesel taxes to stop the 3p tax rise in August

We need everyone to do their bit to help cut fuel prices for millions of Britons. That's why I would urge Star readers to sign the petition and join our fight for cheaper petrol and diesel.

Immigration

Lots of Harlow residents write to me about immigration so I wanted to give you an update. So far:

- >> 450 bogus colleges have already been shut down
- >> A new skills test has been brought in, giving British people priority for jobs
- >> There is a tough new English language test for migrants
- >> A fixed cap of around 20,000 on skilled workers a year coming from outside the EU
- >> There will be new laws to confront the horror of forced marriage
- >> In the past year 40,000 individuals who have no right to work in Britain have been deported
- >> UK taxpayers will no longer have to foot the bill for immigrants on family visas who cannot pay their way in the UK. Only those earning at least £18,600 will be able to bring in a spouse or partner from outside Europe.

Pre-apprentice school

Finally, you will have read in the Star that Harlow has had some fantastic news. A high-tech apprentice school is to open in the town following my two-year campaign.

The new University Technical College will provide vocational training and pre-apprenticeships for around 600 pupils aged 14 to 19. It will also teach maths and English, and will mean millions of pounds of new investment, jobs and regeneration.

Along with our local schools, it will give our youngsters the chance to get high-tech skills for the future. In the long-term it will help us to tackle the problem of youth unemployment.

I am very proud as Harlow's MP to see something that I and many others have worked for come into being.

Council launches cab check safety app

A NEW smartphone app which allows people to check whether or not their taxi is properly licensed has been launched by Harlow Council.

Designed to improve safety and crack down on unlicensed minicabs, Taxi Check Live! uses the phone's data connection to link directly to the authority's licensing system.

Once downloaded, the software checks any vehicle's registration number against a comprehensive database of black cabs and private hire vehicles licensed to operate in Harlow.

If a green tick appears the vehicle is legitimate but a red cross indicates the cab is not currently licensed by the authority.

Councillor Ian Beckett, chairman of the council's licensing committee, said: "We are using mobile phone technology to give residents and visitors the peace of mind that they are using a licensed taxi or private hire vehicle in Harlow."

"We are always working with local taxi and private hire companies to maintain high standards and this is another way of making people feel safe when travelling around the town."

The new software, which has been developed in-house by the council's

ICT and licensing teams, has also been welcomed by police.

Harlow Chief Inspector Ben Hodder said: "We fully support any project which keeps the community safe."

"The Taxi Check Live! system is another tool in which people can receive information quickly to enable them to make a reliable informed decision then and there on their personal safety."

TaxiCheck Live! can be downloaded with a smartphone by scanning the QR code (above left) or by typing www.harlow.gov.uk/tcl into your smartphone's internet browser.

Dog owner's anger at rail fence 'U-turn'

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A DEAF woman whose hearing dog was killed by a train has blasted Network Rail for refusing to erect new safety fencing along a stretch of track running through Harlow Town Park.

Kim Herbert, of Altham Grove, launched a campaign calling for safety improvements last year after her beloved pet Cassie was killed in 2009 when it strayed onto the unfenced line while out on a walk in Maymeads Marsh Nature Reserve.

But after receiving assurances from Network Rail that a budget had been set aside to upgrade safety barriers along the section of railway linking Harlow Town station and Templefields, she was stunned to be told earlier this week that the plans had now been scrapped.

"Quite simply, they have lied to me all along," Kim told the Star.

"I and others backing my campaign have been told on no fewer than four occasions that this work would be done, but now they've sent me a letter apologising for giving us 'the wrong impression'."

"They have advised me they are not breaking the law by not having a proper fence in place. If that's the case then the law needs to be changed."

She added: "This isn't something that just affects Harlow. Hundreds of dogs are being killed every year on the nation's railways and Network Rail gives absolutely appalling customer service to these poor grieving owners."

"The fact remains we need to get our park properly fenced off and I will not give up until it is."

Kim's online petition has already attracted more than 2,000 signatures and won the backing of Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who told the Star he was extremely disappointed by the decision.

FLASHBACK: Star, September 11, 2011

"This could have a real impact on the safety of young children and pets using the town park," he said.

"After contacting the firm some months ago in support of Kim's campaign, my understanding was that they were going to do something about this and put up proper fencing."

"Kim and others feel very let down by their decision and I will be contacting Network Rail again to register my disappointment. If I don't get a satisfactory response I will be raising the issue in Parliament."

A spokesman for Network Rail confirmed a representative had met Ms Herbert and told her "in good faith" the fence was due to be upgraded.

"Since this meeting he has been informed by colleagues the post and wire fence at this location has been assessed as fit for purpose and therefore there are no plans for it to be upgraded," he said. "We wrote to Ms Herbert at the beginning of May apologising for giving her the incorrect information."

The spokesman added: "We have more than 20,000 miles of railway track in Britain and mark the boundary with our property in a number of ways including walls, fencing and vegetation. The fence at Harlow Town Park has been assessed and deemed to be fit for purpose."

SIR, Thirty years ago Harlow Council had a housing stock of more than 20,000 dwellings. Most people could register on the waiting list and within six months to a year get accommodation. Then came the Right to Buy.

Today the stock of housing for rent is 10,000. Thousands are on the waiting list and many have waited years for their chance to be housed.

Families live in overcrowded conditions while many bring up children in flats, which was never intended to happen. Private landlords have snapped up many of the former council houses with many dwellings converted to multiple occupancy.

Now we have another Tory minister. Grant Shapps, flogging the policy of Right to Buy (Letters, May 31). Weakly he explains that all houses that are sold will be replaced but sadly he forgot to tell us exactly which magic wand will be waved to create this new housing.

Instead of council house sales there should be a massive building programme as there was after the Second World War. We were up to our eyeballs in debt after the war, but a major housebuilding programme by the then Labour government was a stimulus to the economy and provided decent housing for the masses.

So popular was the policy that even the Tories in the 1950s continued to allow council house building. How quickly we forget our past.

Cllr Michael Danvers (Labour)
Tunneade, Harlow

Investment in social housing would give economy a boost

SIR, I read the letter from Grant Shapps, Minister for Housing & Local Government, encouraging council tenants to buy their houses. All well and good except houses that are sold are not replaced.

THIS stunning photograph of a Common Blue butterfly was taken by reader Jemma Humphery, of Morley Grove, Harlow.

"I took the picture on a grass verge alongside Fourth Avenue on June 1," she said. "Some people complain that the council leave some grass verges to grow wild but they are full of beautiful wildflowers which provide much needed habitat for wildlife like this."

Do you have a photograph taken in Harlow that you think is good enough to feature in the Photo of the Week section? If so, we would love to see it.

Email a high resolution copy in jpeg format – along with a brief description of your photograph along with when and where it was taken and your name and address – to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

In Harlow there are thousands of people on the housing list and nationwide the figure is five million. This, by anyone's standard is a national disgrace.

For the past 30 years no government has addressed this issue with any real purpose, hence the housing crisis we face now.

Just imagine the boost to the economy if significant investment in social affordable housing was made and not constantly ignored.

I'm calling on all politicians of all parties to press for significant investment in building hundreds of thousands of new council houses.

Gary Evans
address supplied

The blame-game stopped a long time ago and everyone accepts this is a worldwide issue that affects everyone, not just Harlow.

You can blame the Government's record on health, education and welfare for the Tories' poor showing. You could blame Tory councillors for failing the town.

But while you're blaming Labour, we will be working to bring back confidence and aspiration, especially for young people. We will be supporting better jobs, providing better housing and respecting our core values as a whole community. So accept the result and accept that the Tory way was rejected. Under Mark Wilkinson's leadership we will find a better way and work hard to earn and value the respect given to our position as community leaders.

Cllr Tony Durcan (Labour)
Rundells, Harlow

Proud of Harlow's community spirit

SIR, I am writing to commend the spirit of Harlow citizens during the Queen's diamond jubilee period. Wherever I went over the weekend there were beautifully decorated streets, happy revellers holding street celebrations and general good cheer all round.

A community spirit like this has not been felt for a very long time and it's times like this that I am truly proud of our town. Well done everyone.

Keith Richardson
address supplied

Our jubilee beacon was a damp squib

SIR, Having seen the photos of the jubilee beacon in last week's Star, I just wanted to express my dismay and utter contempt at this embarrassment to our town.

Surely they could have managed to come up with something more impressive than a 9-10ft pole held up with a couple of bags of sand!

It is just another example of Harlow Council's half-ad attitude to things. I just hope Her Majesty doesn't get wind of it or it will be

'Off with their heads' and a well-deserved order to demolish the town.

Darren Playle
Hare Street Springs

Docs must swallow the pensions pill

SIR, We all rely on our doctors and most are held in high esteem, but some are not so good at diagnosing the pension problem they have helped create.

Providing they follow their advice to the rest of us and don't eat, drink or smoke their way to an early grave, this generation of doctors should be able to join their patients in spending almost as long in retirement as they do in work.

Under current proposals doctors will pay between 5-10.9 per cent of salary towards their pension, depending on promotion or specialism. Police officers pay 11 per cent and teachers between 6.4-8.8 per cent.

Taking account of the time and cost of qualifying and starting as a junior doctor, a career average annual income of £40,000 equates to total pension contributions of perhaps £145,000 over 40 years (not adjusted for inflation).

But a final salary pension is not based on career average. A doctor retiring today on a salary of £100,000 will, in addition to a lump sum, receive final salary index-linked pension of around £50,000 a year. Over 30 years with three per cent average inflation, they'll end up with a pension of £123,000 a year and will have received £2.5m.

Who pays for this massive difference between what is paid in and out? Taxpayers of course. Some doctors don't seem to think this is enough to live on but if they really believe that, what is to stop them saving? ISAs, stakeholder pensions, or additional voluntary contributions are all tax-efficient ways to bolster retirement income.

Come on doctors, take the medicine. You can afford it.

Tony Hall
Kingsdon Lane, Harlow

Tories found cash to pay for civic dinners

SIR, Conservative councillor Mike Garnett claimed that the Tories couldn't afford to fund Pets' Corner, the Playhouse or Pardon Wood Nature Reserve and they were forced to close public toilets in the town centre due to the financial mess that Labour left (Letters, May 31).

Funny, then, that there was always plenty of money for expensive civic dinners and who can forget the £65,000 that was paid for those ludicrous gigantic red flowerpots in Market Square that give the impression they're trying to twin Harlow with Noddy's Toytown.

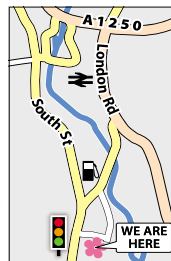

Bob Johnson
Wissants, Harlow

Nothing to gain by blaming the voters

SIR, I was disappointed to read Cllr Mike Garnett's letter. At the end of the election it was the Harlow voters who decided that they wanted Labour back in charge.

It is unfair and unpleasant for any councillor to try and simply blame the public as the truth hurts when the voters want a change.

We know that less than 30 per cent of the community took part in the election but criticising those who did won't help anyone. We can spend the next year blaming each other but I believe what will restore confidence is solutions, not moaning.

David named lawyer of the year by US review guide

A SOLICITOR specialising in clinical negligence law has been recognised as the best in his field by a respected international guide to the legal profession.

David Kerry, a senior partner at Attwaters in West Gate, Harlow, has been named London Clinical Negligence Lawyer of the Year by US-based review Best Lawyers. He received the accolade after being nominated by fellow solicitors in the UK.

"This new award rather came out of the blue, which made it all the more welcome as recognition of the work done by my medical negligence team serving clients from Essex and further afield," said Mr Kerry.

"We have achieved substantial settlements for many people who have been let down in circumstances where they needed and deserved the most professional and diligent medical care possible. This is satisfaction in itself; the award is a bonus for my team."

Mr Kerry has already been given 'starred individual' status in Chambers, a directory of the legal profession, while Attwaters is highly rated in the publication Legal 500 UK.

Teen told rail station staff: I've got a bomb

A glass of Bucks Fizz on the bling bus

SHOPPERS were invited to hop on board when international fashion brand Tresor Paris brought its 'bling bus' to Harlow. Decked out with plush leather seats and featuring a lounge bar on the top deck, the customised bus rolled into Market Square on Saturday. Inquisitive shoppers climbing on board were invited to browse the brand's latest collection of bracelets, cufflinks and accessories while sipping Bucks Fizz and tucking into cupcakes. They also had the chance to win a £150 bracelet by taking part in a prize draw run by Tresor's local

A spokeswoman for the shop, which has just undergone a revamp, said: "The bus certainly caused quite a stir and shoppers really appreciated the chance to relax on board with a glass of bubbly."

A TEENAGER whose bizarre behaviour sparked a bomb scare at a railway station has been spared jail.

Magistrates were told that Keely Askew (18), of Moorfield, Harlow, turned up at the station in Colchester with a pink dummy in her mouth. She then took it out and told staff she had a bomb in her bag and to call police.

When officers arrived they arrested and handcuffed Askew before searching her bag, but no device was found.

Askew, who pleaded guilty to making the bomb hoax, was given a four-week jail sentence suspended for 18 months and ordered to undergo drug treatment when she appeared at Chelmsford Magistrates Court on Monday.

The court was told that at the time of the incident she had been taking the drug crystal meth.

Kathy Wilson, prosecuting, said that at about 9pm Askew was seen in the ticket hall of the station with the pink dummy in her mouth. There were three or four other people in the area at the time.

"She stood at the office window but didn't speak as she was carrying on sucking the dummy before putting a travel warrant under the window," said Ms Wilson. "After taking the dummy from her mouth she said she wanted to travel to Harlow."

By COURT REPORTER

"She then said: 'I want you to phone the police and tell them I've got a bomb in my bag'. She left the window and the supervisor called the police."

Ms Wilson said Askew told police the dummy was to stop biting her mouth because she had been using crystal meth and made the claim about the bomb in order to be arrested "because she didn't want to walk through Harlow alone".

Michael Collis, representing Askew, said in mitigation: "Since the incident she's become well aware of how serious the matter is."

"When the officers approached her they found she didn't have any device on her and there was no disruption. It was a cry for help."

Mr Collis added that Askew had also sent a letter of apology.

More than 1,000 people will be taking part in the Star-backed event – and late entrants can sign up on the night.

Simply go to the sign-up desk outside Asda in the Water Gardens between 8.30pm-9.30pm to register. The cost is £20.

For those who have already registered, signing in opens at 8.30pm and the walk starts at 9.30pm. Heart FM will be on stage with competitions and music, there will be a zumba demonstration at 9pm and a pre-walk warm-up by staff from Virgin Active at 10pm.

You can also pop along to the Star gazebo to pick up a free can of Shark energy drink and an England flag.

If you are taking part in the walk, all the information you need is in the panel on the right.

This week, day patients at St Clare Hospice have been helping to pack the goody bags given to each walker.

"We wanted to be able to do our bit to support the event and packing the bags seemed like a good idea," said one willing helper.

Meanwhile, Harlow cab firm ABC Cars will be showing its support for the St Clare Hospice by laying on free wheels for walkers.

From 9pm-10pm 60 cars will be out and about to pick up Midnight Walkers anywhere in Harlow and take them to the Water Gardens, free of charge.

Drivers will ask those they pick up to make a donation to St Clare instead of paying the usual fare and this will then be matched by the company.

ABC Cars director Nick Jones said: "We wanted to get involved and support this hugely important and successful fundraising event for a worthy local cause.

"We hope by doing so we're giving something back to the community that both ABC Cars and St Clare Hospice serve."

Walkers must book their cab in advance by calling (01279) 300900 for journeys between 9pm-10pm, live in Harlow and show their Midnight Walk registration card which has been posted to every walker registered.

Walk organiser Tracy Stratford said: "We're so amazed and delighted by the support ABC Cars have offered and would like to thank Nick and his team for getting this year's event off to a flying start for our walkers."

STAFF at Veolia Environmental Services have been doing their bit to support St Clare Hospice. Teams of volunteers were at the Asda supermarket in Harlow, handing out leaflets to promote the Midnight Walk.

Sharon Knight, contract manager with Veolia Environmental Services in Harlow, said: "Through the donation of time, effort and skills possessed by the many individuals who make up our team in Harlow, we are proud to provide support to help our local community.

"St Clare Hospice is close to our hearts and we are happy to be able to give something back."

Sign-in opens at 8.30pm with registration desks set up under white gazebos outside Asda. You should report to the one that corresponds with your surname. Heart FM will be on stage with competitions and music, there will be a zumba demonstration at 9pm, the pre-walk warm-up by Virgin Active will start shortly after 10pm and the walk itself will get underway at 10.30pm.

CAN FRIENDS SIGN UP ON THE NIGHT?

Yes! Registration on the night costs £20 so tell your friends to go to the 'register on the night' desk under the white gazebos to sign up. They will also receive a goody bag and T-shirt.

SHOULD I BRING MY SPONSORSHIP CASH?

No thank you! Please post us a cheque with your sponsor form after the walk or pop along to the hospice to pay in your sponsor money.

WHERE CAN I GET THE FLASHING BUNNY EARS?

There will be a stall selling pink flashing bunny ears for £3 each on the night at the Water Gardens. All proceeds will go to the hospice. It will also be selling pink flashing fairy wings, pink glowsticks and other pink Midnight Walk goodies.

In addition, a drink will be in the goody bag which all walkers will receive when they sign-in. Please bring extra drinks with you to keep hydrated.

Yes. The walk takes over the top section of the Water Gardens car park so we advise that you park on the lower level. Parking after 8pm costs 50p.

WHERE ARE THE TOILETS?

There are toilets at the Water Gardens where the walk starts and finishes and half way round the route at Mulberry Green.

ARE THERE SAFETY PRECAUTIONS?

The whole route will be marshalled by volunteers assisted by special constables and police community support officers. There will be a walk leader and back marker and there will be radio communication between marshals and the walk organisers. A mobile first aid unit will also be present.

WHAT IF I NEED ASSISTANCE?

If you need help or decide to leave the walk before the finish, please inform one of the marshals or text/call 07910 498824.

IS THERE A TIME LIMIT TO FINISH?

The organisers expect everyone will be able to complete the walk within three and a half hours.

WHAT DO I NEED TO BRING?

YOU MUST BRING YOUR REGISTRATION CARD and, if you have one, a mobile phone. Please add the contact telephone number to your phone book before you leave home. Text or call 07910 498824 if you need assistance or if you plan to leave the walk before you finish. You may find it useful to carry a small torch with you. Layered clothing is best and it is advisable to bring waterproof clothing if rain is forecast.

WIN Two top price tickets to smash hit comedy

JIM Hacker and Sir Humphrey Appleby are back in the other coalition comedy! Following two smash hit West End runs and a successful nationwide campaign trail, the award-winning Yes, Prime Minister has been updated and voted back into London!

Taking up residence in the heart of Whitehall, this hilarious comedy by original BBC writers Antony Jay and Jonathan Lynn thrusts the much-loved characters of Sir Humphrey and Jim Hacker into the chaos of 21st century coalition politics.

With the threat of financial meltdown just hours away and the only hope of rescue resting on a morally dubious deal with the Foreign Minister of Kumranistan, the stage is set for a riotous comedy of sex, scandal and scheming.

This week we are giving you the chance to win one of five pairs of tickets to the show at the Trafalgar Studios in Whitehall.

Simply answer the question on the

E-fit image of tattooed man who accosted 10-year-old

DETECTIVES investigating an incident in which a young girl walking home from school was accosted by a man sitting in a car have released an e-fit image of the suspect.

The 10-year-old victim was in Great Plumtree when she was grabbed by the hood of her coat by the man, who was in the passenger seat of a small blue saloon car.

She was able to escape his grasp when the driver of the vehicle shouted at the man, forcing him to release his grip.

Police originally treated the incident, which happened at 3.30pm on Friday, June 1, as an attempted abduction but have since described it as an "accosting".

Investigating officer Detective Sergeant Steve Jones said: "It left the girl very frightened and upset but she has been brave and provided a good description of the man who accosted her

"We would urge people who saw the incident or a car matching the description we have given to contact us."

The suspect is described as white, in his late 20s or early 30s and of average build with muscular arms. He spoke with a foreign accent and had a scar on his top lip and tattoos of Roman numeral on his left forearm.

At the time of the incident he was wearing a blue T-shirt, black jogging bottoms and black trainers.

The car is described as a small four-door saloon with blacked-out front and rear side windows.

DS Jones added: "Given the distinctive description of the man we are confident somebody can give us a name so, again, we urge them to contact us so that we can establish what happened on Friday afternoon."

Anyone with information should contact detectives at Harlow police station on 101.

Business showcase a triumph for town

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

THIS year's Harlow Business Exhibition has been hailed the best yet after pulling in crowds of more than 700 people on Tuesday.

The Star-sponsored event, now in its third year, took place at The Manor of Groves Hotel in High Wych where 100 local firms set up stall to promote their business.

Featuring a packed programme of informative business seminars, live entertainment and plenty of opportunities for exhibitors and delegates to network, this year's showcase was the biggest to date.

The organisers are now considering expanding the event for 2013.

From the moment Harlow MP Robert Halfon officially opened the exhibition at 10am it was a hive of activity with solicitors, accountants, recruitment consultants and financial advisers rubbing shoulders with IT professionals, charity workers, baristas and bakers.

Exhibition co-director Brenda Bailey, of Harlow-based Bailey Book-keeping Services Ltd, said she was thrilled with the turnout.

"The exhibition has grown year on year and this was the biggest and best yet," she said. "It was so busy people were having trouble finding somewhere to park."

"I visited every stand and the feedback was overwhelmingly positive, with many of the exhibitors keen to register their interest in attending next year's event."

"We're confident we can expand the exhibition again in 2013 and we're already looking at venues that could accommodate up to 130 stands."

Mr Halfon said the sheer scale of this year's event proved that Harlow is "open for business".

"This was an incredible exhibition and I was honoured to be invited to open it," he told the Star.

"Harlow has been shown to have the highest rate of new business growth in the whole of the UK and I think that what has been achieved today is extraordinary."

"I visited almost every stand and was impressed by the energy, enthusiasm and pride in our town shown by the exhibitors. There is real appetite for bringing new business and jobs to the town and that is very encouraging to see."

Little Royce is a real cowBOY

FORGET the Milkybar Kid - a two-year-old Australian toddler has become the youngest cowboy in the world after taking the rodeo world by storm.

Pint-sized Royce Gill might still be too young to go to school but he is already saddling up against cowboys more than seven times his age in barrel-racing competitions across Australia.

Sitting atop his trusty steed - a six-year-old miniature pony called Maybelline - Royce is a regular sight on the country's rodeo circuit.

As the seventh-generation cowboy in his family it is perhaps no surprise the gutsy youngster has taken to the sport, which involves racing around barrels at high-speed and requires expert horsemanship.

According to proud dad Ryan Gill - himself a champion bull rider - rodeo dust is in his young son's blood.

"I have ridden horses since I was five and his mother also barrel races," Ryan told reporters. "We have 200 calves purely for bucking bulls and 300 horses for rodeos, so there's not much else around for Royce to play with."

"There are a lot of older kids, but Royce loves it and is pretty keen. I just sit him on and he wants to stay there."

Mr Gill, whose family lives on a 3000-acre property in the countryside, said he would help his son progress on to bigger calves and ponies as he grew.

Labour hopeful praises work of volunteer team

LOCAL volunteers were praised for their work in the community during a meeting with Labour prospective parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride.

To coincide with National Volunteer Week, Ms Stride visited the Volunteer Centre Harlow in Wych Elm to discuss the importance of the work it does.

The charity matches local people with volunteering roles aimed at building skills and confidence for the individual while also helping worthy causes.

Afterwards, Ms Stride said it was charities like the Volunteer Centre Harlow that helped to transform communities.

"It was inspiring meeting such hard-working individuals who really believe in the need to see people fulfil their potential and help equip them through volunteering with the necessary skills and confidence," she said.

Charity leader Della Nash

took the opportunity to encourage more people to take on volunteering roles.

"We meet many people wishing to develop skills, increase their employment prospects and their sense of wellbeing," she said.

"Volunteering enables people to take an active part in their community and make a real difference."

For more information about volunteering opportunities in Harlow, visit www.volunteercentreharlow.org.uk or call (01279) 308310.

Calendar girls make a date to appear on live TV show

HARLOW'S very own 'Calendar Girls' are preparing to strip off once again – although this time it will only be their feet on show.

Female members of Harlow Walking Group, who raised thousands of pounds for Harlow Fields School by creating and selling copies of a calendar which they called Girls In Boots, can be seen on Channel 4's Embarrassing Bodies: Live From The Clinic on Tuesday (June 19) at 8pm.

After reading an article in the Star about the calendar, producers of the show thought they would be perfect candidates to take part in a segment raising awareness about foot health.

A show spokesperson said: "Many factors can affect foot health and it is important people learn from a young age that they can control the issues that could affect them in later life.

"Bad footwear can result in bunions, ingrown toenails, crushed or curled toes and hammer toe. Not keeping feet clean can result in fungal infections such as athlete's foot, and feet can also tell us a lot about the health of the rest of the body."

As well as featuring in a pre-recorded clip of the walkers in action, the ladies are being put up for the night in a Birmingham hotel so they can appear live on next week's show.

"The production team approached them after reading an article about them posing for a charity calendar," added the spokesperson.

"They already sounded like a proactive group and obviously weren't afraid of the cameras, so they got in touch!"

The saying 'Fools rush in where angels fear to tread' is a ready-made tip, and a worthy one, provided you respect its warning. With so much happening in your social, workaday and family affairs, be prepared to take on more than you bargained for. Spread your wings carefully and think twice before you act. Spend with caution. Call for more astral advice...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21
Add some oomph and a slice of spice to what you really wish to achieve. Chances are that any money-making ideas could begin to mature or even grow more strongly. Whatever the outcome, don't take anything for granted. Net results will depend upon how widely and skillfully you cast your nets. You can make ends meet! Call for your financial forecast...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
Life's little and large events will range from A to Z and back again. With so much going on and coming off, opportunity and potential advantages team with luck. If you don't brave the fates, you will miss the chances. Coming to terms with or sorting a relationship will be crucial. Come what may, show your care Gemini. Call me now for your news and astral advice...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
A deeper journey within your spiritual self could unlock some interesting facets about your own psychic experiences. On the other hand, it would be helpful if others rallied round and showed the kind of support you so often show for them. Despite some knocks and disappointments, at least one good soul can offer a guiding hand. Call for more advice...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
Compliments and praise will be featured in your crowded social calendar. If you intend to take centre-stage, the spotlight will shine on any particular talents as you flow around your social circle. You are happiest in the headlights, and being basically extrovert usually gives a boost to your popularity. Don't take any kind of lead, unless you are asked. Call for more...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
It won't be easy not to apply critical perfection to whatever makes family folk co-surrounds you and what others say or do. Whether at work, or in the beginning of a new outlook, the stars shed confidence. It is to be hoped that you discover what you really enjoy most, and because you have it in you to achieve. Whatever your fears, focus creatively. Call me now for your in-depth forecast...

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23
Useful news, travel fear in and other parcels of delight could bring some tempting changes. However, target your dreams and desires with care, as they won't be snag-free. Even so, the planetary patterns are whirling with wishes and good things. Even a blast from the past could tantalize your emotions. Be as you can be - clever, calm and wise. Call for your love scope...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22
You are a powerful ally to those close to you. But what happens when you need a shoulder to cry on? If only you could become more adaptable. Financial pressures are bound to prevail, if only briefly. Joint accounts and other money matters demand a tactful step if you are to resolve whatever occurs. You will win the day! Call for your financial forecast in full...

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21
If you are to devote more time to a rewarding someone, then you need to concentrate your efforts on making headway. Your new plans and ideas will attract luck. If you don't brave admirers, or at least some friendly support. All the the chances. Coming to eyes on personal money fixtures. You hate being tied down, so weigh up the pros and cons. Call me now for your in-depth forecast...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20
Being ambitious and practical, you're likely to get to where you want. As you tend not to be overly optimistic, you're not put out by the occasional drawback. Calculate money moves with caution. Like-minded allies are set to give you the support you need. Keep life simple and easy going. Trust your intuition and you'll enjoy what happens next. Call for more advice...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19
There is so much romance in the air that you could be forgiven for getting too intensely excited. If you are single, watch for signs and signals that could lead you temptingly astray. If you have a partner, your bonds will be strengthened. Otherwise, you could discover a world of rewarding joys if you step up your creativity. Call me now for your love scope in full...

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20
Home life will be especially pleasant, making family folk co-operative. You'll tend to see both situations and people as you want them to be, rather than the way they are. Guard against self-deception or going to the other extreme and becoming escapist. Despite the obstacles, you can still gain new ground. Be cool, chill and don't lose your patience. Call for more...

Royal celebration of 60 years in song and dance

review

Makin' Steps Performing Arts Harlow Leisurezone

SLICK, ambitious and breathtakingly bold, Makin' Steps' dazzling diamond jubilee showcase was an adrenaline-pumping thrill-ride through 60 years of pop culture.

A breathless musical journey from the rock 'n' roll revolution of the Coronation era to the athletic street-dance workouts of the noughties, 5212 was impressive in scale and immersive in its period detail.

Any concerns the group might have overstretched themselves were swiftly put to bed with a seamless introductory sequence. And despite a few niggling technical problems, the hugely talented cast hardly put a foot wrong throughout the three-hour song and dance extravaganza. Introduced to each new decade by a tongue-in-cheek newsreel summing up the biggest news, sport and music stories of the period, the audience sat mesmerised as wave after wave of young performers hit the stage in a whirlwind of impeccably-choreographed routines and spectacular costumes.

From the adorable suit-wearing tots jumping and jiving to Chuck Berry to the accomplished adults pulling off gravity-defying Michael Jackson routines, the show struck the perfect balance between the cute and the jaw-droppingly acrobatic.

Affectionate pastiches of Saturday Night Fever (complete with a hip-thrusting, medallion-wearing John Travolta-alike) and YMCA provided flashes of laugh-out-loud humour, while inventive routines for It's Raining Men, Legs and Harder, Faster, Better, Stronger stirred the imagination.

There was space for real elegance, too, with ballet students given their chance to shine in the gentler moments, but it wasn't all about movement. The group continually reminded the audience they are more than just a dance school with pitch-perfect vocal performances from confident soloists of all ages.

The live band also deserves special mention, playing non-stop medleys for up to half-an-hour at a time and joining the dots between the decades with a huge repertoire of rock 'n' roll, funk, soul, disco and pop hits.

It wasn't just the school's obvious flair for showmanship that shone through. The smiles on the faces of the performers told their own story - one of a committed group of youngsters comfortable in their own ability and grateful for the opportunity to showcase their skills in front of an audience of hundreds.

And judging by this outstanding performance, they fully deserved their time in the limelight.

Paranormal thriller is a little light on shocks

MEDIUM: Robert De Niro stars as blind psychic Simon Silver in RED LIGHTS

RED LIGHTS certificate 15, 1h53m

SEEING is deceiving. Look beyond the obvious and you might glimpse writer-director Rodrigo Cortes' sleights of hand in this intriguing thriller which follows two paranormal investigators as they debunk fraudulent mediums, mind readers and ghost hunters through the appliance of science.

Savvy audiences who enthusiastically devoured The Sixth Sense and its supernatural kin will enjoy piecing together the puzzle while searching for clues in nervous glances and ominous silences between the characters.

Dr Margaret Matheson (Sigourney Weaver) has devoted her life to probing paranormal phenomena and exposing the trickery behind supposedly wondrous occurrences. Flanked by her trusty assistant Tom Buckley (Cillian Murphy), she travels the world, discovering the simple truth behind a haunted house and exposing a spirit guide called Palladino (Leonardo Sbaraglia) as a charlatan.

She shares her experiences by lecturing university students including Sally (Elizabeth Olsen) and Ben (Craig Roberts), but Margaret's unerring scepticism pits her against Professor Paul Shackleton (Toby Jones), who believes science cannot explain everything.

Out of the blue the investigator's great adversary – spoon-bending blind psychic Simon Silver (Robert De Niro) – comes out of retirement and embarks on a lucrative theatre tour with his agent Monica Handson (Joely Richardson).

Tom feels passionately that Margaret should debunk Silver but she urges caution. But the closer he strays towards Silver the more powerful the blind psychic becomes, putting the paranormal investigators on a collision course with disaster.

The problem with Red Lights is that it promises far more than it delivers, turning a narrative screw for the opening 45 minutes that teasingly hints at invisible, dark forces at work in a bustling metropolis.

Once Cortes reveals his elaborate and impressively grand design, incredulity supplants fascination, culminating in an oddly underwhelming big reveal that plays on our perceptions.

There are strong performances from Murphy, Weaver and De Niro, who savour barnstorming monologues that reveal another piece of the convoluted conundrum, but Olsen is wasted in her underwritten supporting role as Tom's love interest.

Tension of the first half dissipates as Cortes engineers his earth-shattering finale, replete with flashbacks to earlier scenes that slyly foretold of the destruction to come.

WANNABE singer Sherrie Christian (Julianne Hough) leaves Oklahoma for the bright lights of Los Angeles, where her luggage and prized record collection are stolen the moment she steps off the bus.

She is rescued by aspiring rocker Drew Boley (Diego Boneta) who works as a bartender at The Bourbon Room. He persuades owner Dennis Dupree (Alec Baldwin) and right-hand man Lonny Barnett (Russell Brand) to hire Sherrie as a waitress. Bare-chested frontman Stacee Jaxx (Tom Cruise) comes between lovebirds Drew and Sherrie, while Mayor Mike Whitmore (Bryan Cranston) and his puritanical wife Patricia (Catherine Zeta-Jones) pledge to clean up the city by shutting down The Bourbon Room.

An interview between music journalist Constance Sack (Malin Akerman) and Stacee leads to heartache and Sherrie swallows her pride to dance at The Venus Club owned by Justice (Mary J Blige).

FAST GIRLS certificate 12A, 1h30m

SHANIA Andrews (Lenora Crichlow) lives on a London council estate and trains for the 200 metres with coach Brian (Phil Davis).

Shee beats fast-rising Lisa Temple (Lily James) in a qualification race to book her spot at the World Championships. Lisa is incredulous and her father David (Rupert Graves) – a former Olympic gold medalist – exerts even more pressure on his daughter.

Coach Tommy Southern (Noel Clarke) invites Shania to join the relay squad and she gels with 100 metres veteran Trix Warren (Lorraine Burroughs), Belle Newman (Lashana Lynch) and reserve runners Sarah (Dominique Tipper) and Rachel (Hannah Frankson).

However, Lisa runs the relay anchor leg and tension intensifies when Shania develops a crush on physiotherapist Carl (Bradley James), who is also the object of Lisa's affections.

MEN IN BLACK 3 Boglodite assassin Boris The Animal (Jemaine Clement) engineers his escape from the Lunar Max high security prison with help from his sexy girlfriend (Nicole Scherzinger). The snarling supervillain plans to travel back in time and kill the man who put him behind bars and shot off his left arm – Agent K (Tommy Lee Jones). The ripple effect causes Agent K to disappear from the future. Having ascertained the past has been altered, Agent J (Will Smith) travels back to 1969 where he meets the young Agent K (Josh Brolin). With assistance from the young Agent O (Alice Eve) and an otherworldly soothsayer called Griffin (Michael Stuhlbarg), J races against the clock to save his best friend from annihilation.

PROMETHEUS (2D & 3D) In the year 2089 astrophysicist Dr Elizabeth Shaw (Noomi Rapace) and her partner Charlie Holloway (Logan Marshall-Green) unearth an ancient cave painting that confirms the existence of an extra-terrestrial race known as the Engineers. Wealthy industrialist Peter Weyland (Guy Pearce) agrees to finance a voyage to the alien home planet. A spaceship called Prometheus captained by Janek (Idris Elba) provides the transport for Weyland company executive Meredith Vickers (Charlize Theron) and the crew including geologist Fife (Sean Harris) and medic Ford (Kate Dickie). Operations android David (Michael Fassbender) casts a dispassionate eye over proceedings but as the explorers touch down on the Engineers' home world they are woefully unprepared for what awaits them.

SNOW WHITE & THE HUNTSMAN When Ravenna (Charlize Theron) ascends to the throne she incarcerates her stepdaughter Snow White (Kristen Stewart) in the north tower and plans to attain eternal youth by ripping out the girl's beating heart. The plucky heroine escapes the dungeon and the clutches of Ravenna's slimy brother Finn (Sam Spruell), and heads into the aptly named Dark Forest. Ravenna's magic holds no sway in this enclave so she hires a Huntsman (Chris Hemsworth) to track down Snow White and deliver the girl to her doom. However, he too falls under the escapee's spell and agrees to help Snow White overthrow Ravenna with the assistance of childhood friend William (Sam Claflin) and eight pint-sized former miners.

Competing in Todays Market

Buyers currently have a large selection of properties from which to choose. This can make buyers indecisive and prompts them to be selective and cautious before settling on the right property.

If you are selling, this puts a huge onus on you to ensure that your property absolutely shines in relation to other properties that are competing for your buyers attentions and, ideally, affections. This is not the time to listen to the fawning estate agent who tells you what you want to hear, particularly in relation to your asking price, in order to secure your valued instruction .

If your property is going to look good next to the others that are available, then pricing not only has to be correct it has to be attractive. Imagine a £10 note. It is definitely worth £10 - but could you sell it for £10?! Probably not, but at £9 you would have people fighting over it to the extent that the price would probably rise!

Likewise, if your property is slightly better than others on the market, don't offset this by quoting a slightly higher price! In other words, make your property the best in the market when compared to others at the same price, and the best-priced property when compared to others of the same size/location/condition. You may not have realised it before, but you find yourself in a fiercely competitive market where only the best value property will sell readily.

Finally, listen to your agent's advice. Only they have a good handle on buyers' immediate requirements, how the buyer perceives value and, importantly, vital buyer information as to what else they have seen and how it compares with yours.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

We offer free collection, on the same day if necessary, using our own recovery vehicles and issue a Certificate of Destruction from the Department of Vehicle Licensing Authority via our direct link to their website. Payment per vehicle negotiable.

Mark Hall lift double in phenomenal debut season

MARK HALL Under-12 Whites football team have completed a remarkable campaign.

In their first season in the Mid Herts Rural Minor League, the side lost only one league game, scoring the most goals and conceding the least goals.

The team completed the league and cup double winners, winning the premier division and the Mid-Herts League Cup.

Mark Hall narrowly missed out on the treble, losing on penalties in the ORC Inter-division Cup.

"We are the first U-12 team from Harlow to enter the Mid Herts Premier League and win the league let alone the double," said manager Troy Mead.

"We also reached the quarter-finals of the Essex County Cup from a starting 76 teams, beating some great teams along the way.

"All the boys should be extremely proud of what they have achieved and we would like to say a big thank you to all the boys for their tremendous hardwork and commitment throughout the long and intense season."

THE searing heat proved no problem for girls and boys school cricket teams from Harlow who shone in an annual tournament.

More than 200 Year 5 and 6 boys and girls, representing 22 school teams, descended on Harlow Town Cricket Club to take part in the annual Harlow School Sport Partnership Kwik Cricket Festival.

Kwik cricket is a modified version of the full game.

Each team has eight players and bats and bowls for eight overs in each match.

On the day, teams were competing in best overall team and girls team competitions.

In the best team event, four sides topped their round robin groups and competed in semi-finals and then a final.

These were Abbotswold, Fawbert & Barnard, Latton Green and Pear Tree Mead.

Abbotswold (259 for 4 wickets) beat Pear Tree Mead (242 - 7) and Fawbert & Barnard (286-2) defeated Latton Green (195-8).

In the final, Abbotswold were victorious (226-1), beating Fawbert & Barnard (206-6).

Pear Tree Mead (295-1) came third after beating Latton Green (245-1) in a 3rd/4th place play-off match.

In the girls competition, 10 teams all played in two large round-robin groups and the top two teams faced each other in the final.

Church Langley's A and B teams faced each other in the final.

The A team won with a score of 234-4. The B team scored 205-9.

The win also meant that Church Langley successfully defended the girls title which they won last year.

Abbotswold and Church Langley will now represent Harlow at the Essex county finals.

These will take place at Billericay Cricket Club on June 25 (girls) and 26 (best team).

The whole event was delivered in partnership with Harlow Town Cricket Club and Harlow College with Passmores Academy students acting as umpires and scorers.

Other schools competing were: Roydon, St Albans, St Luke's and Water Lane.

George Gardiner, Harlow SSP manager said: "Everybody who took part did really well, and the whole event was played in great spirit and I would like to wish Abbotswold and Church Langley good luck in the county finals.

"I would also like to thank our partners in delivering this event as without their support it would not have taken place and been such a big success, so thanks to Harlow Town Cricket Club, Harlow College and Passmores Academy."

Harlow slump to second heavy defeat

Upminster 277, Harlow 145
(Harlow lost by 132 runs)
Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League division one

THERE was again no hiding place for Harlow as they slipped to their second successive heavy defeat.

The Marigolds side had lost to Hainault and Clayhall 12 days ago and batting failings were again conspicuous in their mauling at Upminster on Saturday.

Upminster batted first and openers Leon Downie and Andrew D'cruz, who shared a half century first wicket stand.

D'cruz went first for 16 before Downie fell for 30, leaving the hosts on 63-2.

Alan Ison joined James Aggio-Brewe and the pair combined well, taking the score to 220 before Usman Jan trapped Ison who had struck a swift 78.

Aggio-Brewe went on to make 101 but the lower order batting fell way and the hosts were bowled out for 277.

Harlow skipper Luke Heskett took five wickets in just nine balls and finished with figures of 5-25.

In reply, Harlow lost an early wicket. Nino Calvino chipped in with 25 before he was dismissed to leave the visitors on 40-2.

After that, Harlow's batting caved in and they slipped to 90-9.

Ahmed Khawaja, who was the only other batsman to make double figures, struck 83

Town dig in to see off Benfleet

Harlow Town 163, Benfleet 151
Harlow Town won by 12 runs
Shepherd Neame Essex League div one

A GRITTY display with bat and ball guided Harlow Town to a hard-earned victory over Benfleet on a wet wicket.

Benfleet's overseas star Ryan Pryor was virtually unplayable with his seam and swing bowling after Town were put in to bat on Saturday.

Openers Shiraz Ali (12) and Jason Gladwin (23) resisted Pryor well and their efforts, combined with 41 from Ramaya Upadhyay and extras (32), ensured Town reached 163 all out, a good score in the conditions.

In reply the hosts slumped to 54-5 with Town skipper Dan Calver taking four wickets.

Benfleet fought back but wickets tumbled as they got close to the target.

The issue was settled when Ashley Alderson took a brilliant one-handed caught and bowled, giving the visitors a narrow win.

Meanwhile, Harlow Town II (108-8) drew with Benfleet II (226-8) in the Shepherd Neame Essex League.

● Harlow Town host Old Parkonians in the league on Saturday.

not out and completely dominated a last wicket stand of 55 for the 10th wicket with George Messenger.

Messenger was eventually dismissed for a duck.

Afterwards a disappointed Heskett said: "Ahmed again batted superbly but he cannot do it all on his own. The rest of the batters need to start supporting him."

He added: "We revert to time cricket [as opposed to overs cricket] this Saturday at home to Five and Heronians and we need to put in a good performance as they are another very strong side."

Osagie runs a personal best at US meeting

LONDON Olympics hopeful Andrew Osagie underlined his case for selection as he set a personal best in the 800m at the Samsung Diamond League meeting in New York.

The 24-year-old, who runs for Harlow Athletics Club, finished third in Saturday's high-quality field, finishing in a time 1 min 44.61 secs behind Kenyan duo David Rudisha (1:41.74) – the world champion and world record holder – and Alfred Yego (1:44.49).

Osagie's previous personal best of 1:44.64 came at the Diamond League meeting in Doha on May 11. He was also third in that race.

He is showing consistent form as he was also third at the Diamond League meeting in Rome on May 31 in 1:44.71.

Osagie won bronze in the world indoor championships in Istanbul in March.
